Assignment Review

아까부터 동생한테 숙제밖에 안 도와주는 중이에요

I've been doing nothing but helping my brother with his homework since earlier

아까부터 동생 숙제밖에 안 도와주고 있어요

아까부터 동생 숙제만 도와주는 중이에요

1. 도와주다 doesn't go with한테 = Helping "To" someone (?)

- ☒ 동생 숙제만 도와주다
- ☒ 동생만 도와주다

2. ~는 중이다 is awkward with 밖에 + 안

- 밖에 + 안 works best with 고 있다, not ~는 중이다.
- It's not wrong, but it's not how we naturally speak.

Assignment Review

오늘 밤에는 동생한테 영화밖에 안 보고 싶어요

I don't want to do anything but watch a movie with my brother tonight

오늘밤에는 동생과 영화밖에 안 보고 싶어요

1. 동생한테 + 보고 싶어요?

- '보고 싶다' means I want to watch — it's not something you do sn someone
- So, 동생한테 is incorrect here
- ✓ Use 동생과 or 동생하고 or 동생이랑 → means "with my brother"

오늘밤에는 동생한테 영화밖에 안 보여주고 싶어요

I don't want to do anything but show a movie to my brother tonight

2. If you meant "show a movie to your brother"

- ✓ Then you need to the verb 보여주다 (= To show)

Assignment Review

오늘부터 늦게 일하지 마
Don't work late from today on

오늘부터 늦게까지 일하지 마세요

- Spelling mistake 오는 → 오늘
- 늦게 일하다 sounds like "start work late"
- Add 까지 to show the idea of "until late"
- 마세요 sounds more respectful than 마(요)

 We often treat adverbs like nouns in Korean so we can attach particles.
→ like 까지 (until)

Assignment Review

어제는 늦게 일했지마요. 오늘부터는 일찍 떠요
Don't work late yesterday(?) wake up early from today on.

어제는 늦게까지 일하셨습니다. 오늘부터는 일찍 일어나세요.
You worked late yesterday. Start waking up early from today.

✗ You can't use "지 말다" for the past

- You can't tell someone not to do something in the past.

✗ 떠요 doesn't mean "wake up" on its own

• "뜨다" can mean "to open" "to rise" "to float"

✓ 눈을 뜨다" means "To open your eyes", but it's not the same as "waking up"

✓ To say "wake up" or "get up" use "일어나다"

AND

A) Chicken and Beer

B) Sing and dance

- In English, “and” is used in different ways.

- ✓ In A), it connects two nouns.
- ✓ In B), it connects two verbs.

- In Korean, we express these differently depending on what’s being connected.

Noun AND Noun

과/와, 하고, 이랑/랑 all mean “and” when connecting two nouns.

They are interchangeable, but 과/와 is more formal than the others.

1) 과 / 와 (Formal)

과 is used after a noun ending in a consonant (받침).

와 is used after a noun ending in a vowel.

- 치킨과 맥주 – Chicken and Beer
- 남자와 여자 – Men and women

2) 하고 (Casual / Spoken)

Works with any noun, regardless of 받침.

- 펜하고 종이 – Pen and paper
- 의자하고 책상 – Chair and desk

3) 이랑 / 랑 (Casual / Spoken)

이랑 is used after a noun ending in a consonant (받침).

랑 is used after a noun ending in a vowel

- 빵이랑 커피 – Bread and coffee
- 너랑 나 – You and me

Level	Particle	Ending
Formal	과	받침
	와	No 받침
Casual	하고	-
Spoken
Casual	이랑	받침
Spoken	랑	No 받침

It doesn't necessarily mean one is more polite than the others.

WITH - 과 / 와, 하고, 이랑 / 랑

- 과/와, 하고, 이랑/랑 can also mean "with" in Korean.

They're commonly used with the adverbs 같이 and 함께, which both mean "together."

같이 and 함께 are interchangeable

- 함께 is more formal
- 같이 is much more commonly used in daily conversation

These adverbs are optional, but they help emphasize that the action is done together.

Example

- 엄마랑 같이 시장에 갈 거예요 – I will go to the market together with my mom
- 친구와 함께 영화를 봤습니다 – I watched a movie together with my friend
- 누구랑 같이 살고 있어? – Who are you living together with?

같이 & 처럼 = "like"

When 같이 is NOT used with a connecting particle (과/와, 하고, 이랑/랑), it means "like" or "as if", expressing similarity.

🧠 You can also use 처럼 instead of 같이

- 같이 and 처럼 are used exactly the same way.
- There's little to no difference in formality but 같이 is slightly more common in spoken Korean.

Structure: Noun + 같이 / 처럼 + Verb

- 너는 천사같이 착해. → You're kind like an angel.
- 아이같이 웃었어요. → (He) laughed like a child.
- 그 사람은 배우처럼 잘생겼어요. → He is handsome like an actor.
- 기계처럼 일밖에 안 해요. → (He/She) only works like a machine

Sentence Connectors & Endings

Both sentence connectors and endings are formed by attaching grammar to the verb stem

 Two Main Patterns :

1. Verb stem + [Grammar]

- Some forms attach directly to the stem.

2. Verb stem + 아/어/여 + [Grammar]

- Some forms attach after 아/어/여 suffix
(called - tense harmony based on vowel rules.)

 Now, we'll start with two easiest connectors:

 ~고 (and) & ~거나 (or)

- No need to attach 아/어/여
- Works the same whether the verb ends in 받침 or not

Verb	Grammar		Meaning
하다	하 + 고	하고	Do and...
	하 + 여 + 서	해서	Do, so...
잡다	잡 + 고	잡고	Catch and...
	잡 + 아 + 서	잡아서	Catch, so...

 There are no particular rules to tell which forms use 아/어/여 and which ones don't

You'll need to learn each form one by one through exposure and usage.

Verb & Verb / ~고(요)

그리고 is typically used at the beginning of the sentence

It can translate to “And then”, “Additionally” “Moreover”

—Emphasizes the addition of a new idea or action

어제는 친구를 만났어요. 그리고 오늘은 집에 있었어요.

→ I met a friend yesterday. And as for today, I stayed home.

A more casual and natural way to say ‘and’ is by using the connector ‘-고’

Structure: Verb stem + 고

- Used to connect two verbs.

- 받침 in the stem doesn't matter

- 밥도 먹고 술도 마셨어요. → I ate and also drank alcohol.

- 영화를 보고 커피를 마셨어요. → I watched a movie and had coffee.

- 운동도 하고 공부도 했어요. → I exercised and also studied.

- 친구도 만나고 가족도 봤어요. → I met a friend and also saw my family.

- 책을 읽고 음악도 들었어요. → I read a book and also listened to music.

✓ We often use ‘~고’ together with the particle ‘도’
[And also]

~고 Ending (Context marker)

In Korean, you can also end a sentence with ~고 or ~고요, even though it's technically incomplete.

But to Korean ears, it implies that there is something left unsaid—and that implication is understood from context – completely natural

Ending with ~고 / ~고요 suggests:

- There's more to be said, but it's being left out on purpose
- You're implying a follow-up or expecting the listener to understand the rest
- It can feel soft, indirect, or polite

🧠 Think of it like: "...and (you know what I mean)" "...and (stuff)"

📌 Example #1

A: 영화나 볼래요?

B: 밥부터 먹고요

영화나 – Movie or something
밥부터 – 부터 can also mean "This first"

✓ Literal: Eat first and...

✓ Meaning: Let's eat first and then (watch a movie).

↳ The second part is omitted.

⚠ This concept doesn't exist in English, so it may feel unnatural at first.
But it's very common in spoken Korean.

📌 Example #2

A: 안녕히 계세요 – Stay well (Bye)

B: 응, 그래. 운전 조심하 하고
- Okay, Drive carefully and...

✓ Meaning: Drive safe and [take care]

↳ The second part is left unsaid on purpose, softly ending the sentence.

Past Tense Stem + 고

◆ Natural Way to Connect Two Past Tense Actions

In Korean, unlike English, it's much more natural to conjugate only the final verb in the past tense when both actions happened in the past

— There's no need to mark each verb with a past tense

Example: I ate and drank coffee

✗ 밥을 먹었고 커피도 마셨어요

✓ 밥을 먹고 커피도 마셨어요

MUCH MORE NATURAL

◆ When to Use the Past Stem + 고

- The past stem is used to emphasize that the first action happened in the past—especially when the second clause is in a different tense

- 밥은 먹었고, 커피도 마실 거예요

As for the meal, I ate, and I'm also going to drink coffee

How to make the Past Tense Stem

◆ Why is the Past Tense Stem important?

There are expressions that attach directly to the past tense stem. [Next slide]

- 했 + 을 거다 → 했을 거예요 / 했 + 겠다 → 했겠지

◆ How to make the Past Tense Stem

✓ Verb stem + 았 / 었 / 였 + Connector / Ending

Verb Type	Base Verb	Past stem conjugation		Meaning
Regular	보다 (to see)	보 + 았 = 봤	봤고	(I) saw and...
	하다 (to do)	하 + 었 = 했	했고	did and...
	받다 (to receive)	받 + 았 = 받았	받았고	received and...
	먹다 (to eat)	먹 + 었 = 먹었	먹었고	ate and...
— Irregular	쓰다 (to write)	쓰다 → 쓰 + 었 = 썼	썼고	wrote/used and...
ㅁ Irregular	돕다 (to help)	돕 → 도우 + 았 = 도왔	도왔고	helped and...
ㄷ Irregular	걷다 (to walk)	걷 → 걸 + 었 = 걸었	걸었고	walked and...
ㄹ Irregular	모르다 (to not know)	모르 → 모 + ㄹ ㄹ + 았 = 몰랐	몰랐고	didn't know and...
ㅎ Irregular	그렇다 (to be so)	그렇 → 그래 + ㅅ = 그랬	그랬고	was so and...
ㅊ Irregular	짓다 (to build)	짓 → 지 + 었 = 지었	지었고	built and...
ㅁ Irregular	만들다 (to make)	만들 + 었 = 만들었	만들었고	made and...

Past stem + connector / ending

~었지만 - It was. However,
 ~었는데 - It was, and/but/so
 ~었으면 - If it was...
 ~했거든 - I did it, you know.

Expressions Using Past Tense Stem

We learned about ㄹ/을 것이다 and 겠다 while learning Future tense.

Past tense stem can be used with these same endings to express different meanings
—assumptions, suppositions, or imagined outcomes.

1. Assumption about the past

Used when guessing or assuming something that already happened.

Past tense stem + ㄹ/을 거다

- 샀을 거예요 → They probably bought it.
- 힘들었을 거예요 → I'm pretty sure it was hard.

Past tense stem + 겠다

- 추웠겠어요 → It must have been cold.
- 배고팠겠어요 → You must have been hungry.

2. Hypothetical

Used in "if" or "would have" type sentences which you'll learn later

(If clause) + Past tense stem + ㄹ/을 거다

- 시간이 더 있었으면 했을 거예요
→ If I had more time, I would have done it.

(If clause) + Past tense stem + 겠다

- 전화를 했으면 내가 갔겠지
→ If you called, I probably would have gone

We use 겠지 for making a guess, not 겠어

Future Tense + 고

📌 Structure: Verb Stem + 을/ㄹ 거고

- When connecting two future actions, we use:
- 을/ㄹ 것이고 is the full grammatical form with 고 after 이다
— but in everyday speech, it's almost always shortened to:

👉 Verb stem + 을/ㄹ 거고

- 먹다 + 먹 + 을 거고 = 먹을 거고 [Will eat and]
- 가다 + 가 + ㄹ 거고 = 갈 거고 [Will go and]

And it works just like connecting two past tenses

- Present tense + 고 + Future tense

내일은 청소하고 빨래도 할 거예요

→ Tomorrow, I will clean and do laundry.

Not A and...

■ 아니고 vs 말고 – What's the Difference?

- Both can be translated as "not and," but they serve very different purposes.

✓ 1. 아니고

- Comes from the descriptive verb 아니다
(to not be)
- Simply saying what something is not AND...
- Only used to negate a noun and replace it with another

📌 저는 중국 사람이 아니고 한국 사람이에요

→ I am not Chinese, and I'm Korean

🧠 아니고 is describing what I am not
= 중국 사람

✓ 2. 말고

- Comes from the action verb 말다
(to stop / to not do)
- Used in all other cases where 아니고 isn't appropriate
- Used to exclude one option and suggest an alternative
- Adds a nuance of "Except" "Instead".

📌 저 말고 다른 사람한테 얘기 하지 마세요

→ Don't tell anyone except me

📌 이거 말고 저거 주세요

→ Please give me not this, but that one

말고 usages

◆ When 말고 is used with Nouns:

- Used to say "Not this, but something else"

📌 이 색 말고 다른 색은 없나요?

→ Don't you have another color besides this one?

🧠 Not this color — is there a different one?

◆ When 말고 is used with Verbs:

- Used in negative command + [another action]

• Verb stem + 지 말고

→ Tells someone not to do one thing, but to do another

📌 자지 말고 빨리 준비해

→ Don't sleep and get ready now

• 🧠 Stop sleeping and instead get ready

아니고 VS 말고

아니고
Used for	Noun negation
Meaning	A is not B, but C
Example	그건 물이 아니고 술이에요 - That is not water, but alcohol

말고
Used for	Nouns	Action Verbs
Meaning	Not A, but B instead Except A	Don't do A but B instead
Example	이거 말고 저거 주세요 - Please give me that, not this	바닥에서 자지 말고 침대에서 자세요 - Don't sleep on the floor, sleep in your bed instead.
	게임 말고 다른 취미는 없으세요? - Don't you have other hobbies besides video games?

Or 이나 / 나

- Just like “and” has different forms, “or” also changes depending on what you’re connecting — nouns vs. verbs.

1. 이나 / 나 – After Nouns

- Used when the speaker doesn't have a strong preference.
 - You're not necessarily choosing one over the other
 - Ends in a consonant: attach 이나
 - Ends in a vowel: attach 나.
- ◆ 오늘 이나 내일 만날까요? Shall we meet today or tomorrow? (Either is fine.)
 - ◆ 커피 나 녹차를 마세요. I drink coffee or green tea (or something like that).

When 이나/나 is used without a second option

The nuance of 이나/나 when not directly comparing two things is a subtle but important part of Korean sentence structure.

1. 커피나 마시고 싶다

Literal: I want to drink coffee or..?

Natural: I just want to drink coffee or something.

🧠 Not really choosing between "coffee" and something else.

Nuance

▶ I want to drop whatever I'm doing and go get some coffee instead.

▶ Nothing too special — just coffee.

▶ The nuance is similar to "or something"

🔑 Key idea: 이나 here means "not ideal, but better than _____."

2. 이거나 빨리 해

Literal: Do this or... quickly.

Natural: Just hurry up and do this already.

🧠 "나" puts emphasis on what's in front of it.

Nuance

▶ The tone feels a bit annoyed or urgent — like "At least do this!" or "if nothing else, just this"

🔑 Key idea: 나 here could be translated as "just" or "at least".

Example sentences - 이나 / 나

- 노래나 들을래?

→ Want to listen to music or something?

- 산책이나 하실래요?

→ Want to go for a walk or something?

- 술이나 마실래?

→ Want to go get a drink or something?

- 일이나 제대로 해.

→ At least do your job properly.

- 전화나 좀 해.

→ At least call or something

Any 아무 ____ 이나 / 나

🎯 "아무" is Never Used On Its Own

- "아무" means "any," but it's never used by itself in a sentence.
- It needs 이나 / 나 to work inside a sentence to mean [anything or whatever] - Positive any

We learned the nuance of 이나 / 나 when used without a second option:

It adds the same nuance to "아무 ____"

- 이나 / 나 completes the idea of "Anything or whatever"
- So, it replaces whatever particle that normally would've been there — 이/가, 을/를, etc.

✓ 아무 옷 이나 괜찮아요 = Any clothing is fine (Just wear anything)

✗ 아무 옷 이 괜찮아요

✓ 아무 노래 나 틀어 = Play any song

✗ 아무 노래 를 틀어

✓ 아무데 나 갈 수 있어 = I can go anywhere

✗ 아무데 에 갈 수 있어

✓ 아무데서 나 만나자 = Let's meet anywhere

✗ 아무데 에서 만나자

Word	Meaning
아무거나	Anything
아무데나	replaces 에	Anywhere
아무데서나	replaces 에서
아무 때나	Anytime
아무나	Anyone

Nobody, Nowhere, etc.

Any 아무 __ 도 + Negative

🧠 In Korean, we say "Not even any"

- [아무: Any] + [Noun] + [도: even] + [a negative verb]
- Same logic as "not anyone," "not anywhere," "not anything" in English
→ Translates as nothing / no one / nowhere depending on the noun

Word	Meaning
아무것도	Even Anything
아무데도	Even Anywhere
아무 때도	Even Anytime
아무도	Even Anyone

Examples:

여기에는 아무것도 없어요 → As for here, even anything doesn't exist → [There's nothing here]

It's not 아무것도

주말에 아무데도 가지 않았어요 → I didn't go (even) anywhere on the weekend

아무도 신경을 안 썼어요 → Even anyone didn't care → [No one cared]

아무 때도 쉬지 못했어요. → I couldn't rest at even any time. [I didn't get a chance to rest at all.]

Any 아무 ____ 나 + Negative = Not just any

🎯 When “아무 ____ 나” is followed by a negative verb

- This does NOT mean “no one” or “nothing.”

⚠️ Completely different from 아무 ____ 도 + negative!

✅ Example:

- 저는 아무나 좋아하지 않아요

→ I don't like anyone

❌ Not: I like nobody

✔️ Means: I'm selective.

🧠 Think of it this way:

- 아무나 + positive = anyone (whoever)
- 아무나 + negative = Not just anyone

Expression	Meaning	Example
아무 도 + Negative	No one	아무 도 안 왔어요 - No one came
아무 나 + Negative	Not just anyone	아무 나 못 들어와요 - Not just anyone can come in

✔️ Also works with 아무것(거) / 아무데 / 아무 때

Verb Stem + 거나

🧠 Verb Stem + 거나 = Verb version of 이나 / 나

- It works the same way — just with actions instead of nouns
- Does not matter whether the stem ends in 받침 or not
- No irregularity, No changes in the stem
 - 크거나 / 돕거나 / 걷거나 / 모르거나 / 그렇거나 / 짓거나 / 만들거나

— irregular

ㅁ irregular

ㄷ irregular

르 irregular

ㅎ irregular

ㅅ irregular

ㄹ irregular

집에 가거나 쉬고 싶어요 → I want to go home or rest.

책을 읽거나 음악을 들어요 → I read a book or listen to music.

운동을 하거나 집에 있을 거예요 → I'll either work out or stay home.

그러거나 말거나

그러거나 말거나: translated as [couldn't care less]

- 그러다 = to act like that / to do so
- ~거나 = or
- 말다 = to stop / to not do

- ✓ 그러다 = Action verb
- ✓ 그렇다 = Descriptive verb

Same with 이 / 저

➤ 그러거나 말거나 = Whether they do that or not = "Whatever!"

💡 Usage & Nuance:

- This is a very common Korean expression that shows apathy, indifference, or disregard.
- It's a perfect example of how ~거나 can imply: ➡ "I don't care which one it is."
- You can end the sentence with 그러거나 말거나 on its own or use it with a second clause.

✓ Example

- 개가 울거나 말거나 신경 안 써.
→ Whether she cries or not, I don't care. [Let her cry]
- 누가 그러거나 말거나 난 갈 거야.
→ Whether someone does that or not, I will go [Whatever they say or do, I'm still going]

아니면, 혹은

아니면 – When the Choice Matters

- Literally means “If not” - 아니 (To be not) + 면 (If) = If not
 - ◆ Unlike 이나 / 나 아니면 is used when you care about the choice.
- It's used when you want to pick one or the other.
- ✓ Example:
 - 스테이크 먹을래? 아니면 파스타 먹을래?
→ Do you want steak, or (= if not) pasta? [You're choosing one]

면 is another sentence connector which means “If” or “when”, which we will learn very soon

혹은 – More Formal Version of 아니면

- 혹은 is used in the same way as 아니면 — to present a choice.
- 혹 is a Sino-Korean word + 은 a topic marker
- 혹은 is often used in writing or formal speech.
- ✓ Example:
 - 이메일 혹은 문자 주세요.
→ Please send me an email or (=if not) a text message.

💡 Whenever there are two versions of the same word, the Sino-Korean is usually the more formal one.

또는

■ 또는 – is made of: 또 (again) + 는 (topic marker)

- It also means “or,” but has a nuance of and/or.
- They could be both and one or the other
- Often used in written Korean, formal speech, and explanations
- Slightly more logical or comprehensive in tone

책 또는 영화를 추천해 주세요.

→ Please recommend a book and/or a movie (or possibly both).

토요일 또는 일요일에 만나요.

→ Let's meet on Saturday and/or Sunday.

Summary – How to Say "OR" in Korean

Expression	What It Connects	What It Means	When It's Used	Example Sentence
이나 / 나	Noun + Noun	Or	When you don't care which is chosen	커피나 차 마실래요? Wanna drink coffee or tea?
	1 Noun only (casual tone)	Or something / just	When lightly suggesting something, no clear comparison	산책이나 하자. Let's go for a walk or something.
	1 Noun only (emphatic tone)	At least / if nothing else	When slightly annoyed or giving minimal suggestion	이거나 빨리 해. Just do this already.
거나	Verb + Verb	Or	When you don't care which is chosen	집에 가거나 쉬 거예요. I'll go home or rest.
아니면	Sentence + Sentence Noun + Noun	Or / If not	When choosing one or the other	김밥 먹을래? 아니면 라면? Do you want gimbap or ramen?
혹은	Sentence + Sentence Noun + Noun	Or (formal)	Same as 아니면, but in formal or written contexts	이메일 혹은 전화로 주세요. Email or call me.
또는	Sentence + Sentence Noun + Noun	And / Or	In writing, often to include both as valid options	책 또는 영화를 추천해 주세요. Recommend a book or movie.

필요하다 = To need(?)

- There is no action verb in Korean that directly means "to need."

Instead, we use the descriptive verb 필요하다 "to be necessary" / "to be needed"

The person in need of something can be marked with [에게 / 한테 / 께] or [은/는]

📌 저에게 (제게) 도움이 필요해요.

→ To me, help is necessary.

📌 저는 이 약이 필요해요.

→ As for me, this medicine is necessary.

Pronoun		Particle	Shortened
Me	나	에게	내게
	저		제게
You	너		네게

Only 3 pronouns can be shortened with 에게

필요하다 is a descriptive verb, so it should NOT be marked with 을/를

You can't "necessary" something

✗ 나는 커피를 필요해요 (Incorrect)

✓ 나는 커피가 필요해요 (Correct — 커피 is what's needed, so it's the subject)

필요하다 - 에게 VS 은/는
